YONKERS.

City Attorney Hunt yesterday made the following statement to a Tribune reporter about his alleged advice in regard to poolselling in Yonkers: "My opinion has never been asked by any one concerning the existence or legality of a poolroom in Yonkers. I never was informed that there was a poolroom in Yonkers, and do not know now that there is or ever has been a poolroom in operation here. Captain Mangin did ask me one day for my advice in regard to the operation of a telegraph instrument which had been put into a room in a hotel in this city, and which instrument, the captain suspected, was connected so that messages could be sent to race-tracks. I informed him that even if he could prove that messages were sent by telegraph from Yonkers directing some one on a racetrack to make certain wagers on certain horses the courts in New-York had decided that such a use of the telegraph constituted no violation of the statutes against gambling at the place from which the message was sent. No question was raised in regard to a poolroom or poolselling, and my opinion was asked sympathy with such a business."

The action of a few free-silver Democrats in trying to organize a club and indorse the Chicago ticket and platform is severely condemned by the regular Democratic organization, the members of which prefer to await the directions of the State Committee. William Sennett, who is chairman of the Democratic City Committee, is in Europa, and M. J. Tierney, the secretary, is said to be in favor

On Tuesday he got one of his fits of ugliness and assaulted the turnkey, John McCarty, and then started in to break everything in sight. He was locked in a cell, and in ten minutes he had reduced everything in it to the smallest fragments. The bed, stool, clothing and all shared the same fate. Since then Drs. Magness and Birch have pronounced him insane, and now Sheriff Johnson is anxious to see County Judge Lent, to have his commitment to the Matteawan State Lunatic Asylum signed.

A CRAZY MAN LEAPS FROM A WINDOW.

HE WAS AWAITING REMOVAL TO THE BLO INGDALE ASYLUM.

Herman Seelig, thirty years old, of No. 264 Bow ery, leaped three stories from a window at No. 330 East Thirtieth-st, yesterday afternoon while suffering from insanity. The man was taken to Bellevue Hospital on Tuesday for examination as to his sanity. He was pronounced insane by the experts. His relatives called at the hospital yesterday morning and had him removed in their custody on con-tract that they would send him to Bloomingdals Asylum. He was taken from the hospital to the home of George Lewald, a relative, who lives on the fourth floor of No. 330 East Thirtieth-st. A trained nurse was engaged to watch him until he could be removed to the asylum.

The nurse was watching him in the kitchen about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he suddenly became violent and tried to get away. The nurse tried to hold him, but the crazed man hit him on the hand and made him release his grasp. He then ran into the front room and flung himself out of an open window, landing in the area. He was picked up and carried into the hallway of the house, where he was cared for until an ambulance arrived from Bellevue Hospital. It was found that he had sustained a concussion of the brain and a severe scalp wound. He was taken to the hospital and placed in the prison ward. It is believed that he will recover from his injuries.

SELZER SAID TO BE IN LONDON.

The creditors of Isidor Selzer, the missing diamond broker, who left debts in this city for between $6,000 and $10,000 worth of precious stones on his sudden departure some days ago, have a clew to his present hereabouts, though just what they are founding it on has not yet appeared. Mr. Stiasnay, who was an old acquaintance of Selzer before the latter's disappearance, told a Tribune reporter yesterday that it was known positively that the broker was now in London. He embellished his remarks with an emphatic opinion of Seizer, which indicated that the former ties of friendship were a trifle strained.

Louis Herney, of No. 257 Broome-st., who has lost about $509 on goods allowed Selzer on credit and memorandum, gave the same report as to the latter's present stay in London to Felgenbaum & ter's present stay in London to Feigenbaum & Schweiger yesterday.

Max J. Lasar, of No. 24 Maiden Lane, and Alois Kohn, of No. 11 Maiden Lane, are two of the diamond dealers whom Selzer approached in vain with offers of credit purchases. Mr. Kohn said yesterday that Selzer's reputation was decidedly poor, even before he left the city. "We are accustomed to take large risks in our dealings," he added, "but when we have reason to believe a certain transaction extra hazardous we decline to handle it. That was the case with Selzer's propositions,"

They will therefore merely aim to represent the men in the city who have been brought into business or personal relations with China and the Chinese Government, and who wish to show their respect for the Ambassador and their affection for his country. The committee is composed of the following men: John Edward, who was Minister to China from 1858 to 1860; George F. Seward, who was Minister to China from 1875 to 1850; John Russell Young, who was Minister to China from 1882 to 1886; John T. Cadwalader, who was Assistant Secretary of State with Mr. Fish; Edward L. Mr. Seward said yesterday in regard to the formation of the committee: "It has been our aim to have the arrangements in charge of men who have been in China on official service for the most part, or have had personal relations with the Chinese. Mr. Burlingame, sr., was a warm personal friend of the Viceroy. General Grant met the Viceroy while making his trip round the world, and a warm personal attachment sprang up between them." Mr. Seward added that he could not state definitely when the Viceroy was expected, but that he would probably arrive about the middle of September. "The Viceroy," he added, "has been the most prominent man in China for the last thirty years. He is a great statesman, a loyal, true patriot, and he is thoroughly progressive and anxious to pick China up and carry her shead."

Colonel Grant, when seen yesterday afternoon, said that he had that day been asked to act as one of the committee, and had accepted with pleasure. None of the guests who may be invited to meet the Viceroy have yet been chosen. have the arrangements in charge of men who have

JAPANESE FINANCIERS HERE.

POLITICAL SITUATION. PRESIDENT SONADA, OF THE SPECIE BANK OF

YOKOHAMA, TALKS OF THE EASTERN WAR OUTLOOK AND EXPRESSES VIEWS ON THE SILVER QUESTION.

The party of Japanese financiers who are on the way to England to take charge of the war indemnity which China has deposited in the Bank of England are spending two weeks in the city pre-England are spending two weeks in the city place vious to sailing for London. They are staying at the Hotel Majestic, and each day is spent in visiting local points of interest. The party consists of S. Hayakawa, secretary of the Minister of Finance of Japan, Counsellor to the Ministry of Finance and Government Inspector of Banks; K. Sonada, president of the Specie Bank of Yoko hama; T. Yamato, chief cashler of the Imperial Bank of Japan; V. Yanayaga, a director of the Bank of Japan, and K. J. Imanishi, secretary of President Sonada. When the peace treaty was concluded after the war between China and Japan China promised to pay the sum of 200,000,000 taels war indemnity, or about $150,000,000 in American money. Half that sum has already been turned over by the Chinese Embassy in London to the Japanese Embassy, and deposited in the Bank of England.

"The Imperial Bank of Japan," said President Sonada yesterday, "Is not allowed to have any for-eign agencies. It is to Japan what the Bank of France is to France or the Imperial Bank of Prussia is to Germany. It is a Government bank, and the Government will not allow it to have any foreign agencies. As representing the Specie Bank of Yokohama, we are made agents of the Bank of of Yokohama, we are made agents of the balls. Japan. We will go to London, receive the money and then act upon advices received there as to the distribution of it. It may be expended in part or entirely in building warships and in securing new facilities for Japan."

"Does Japan, by these warlike preparations, ex-pect more trouble in the East?" President Sonada was asked. He replied quickly:

"No. I think not. China is now our good neighbor. All business men, and I think all men in general, hate war. I do, and I do not look for any more trouble. We are simply building ships and equipping ourselves with arms to make a showing in the world's affairs. We do not want to fight any more, but I see that there is another uprising in Formosa. That province gives us more trouble than China did The people rise up intermittently and make trouble for us. We must fight them, but we are peaceable, and want to turn to commerce more than war. I am a director in the Japanese Mail Steamship Company, which has just made a connection with this country by getting a port at Seattle. I think that will be a good thing, as it will bring this country and Japan in closer fellow-ship than they are now."

"Will Bryan be elected, do you think?" asked President Sonada, as there was a luli in the conlatest European fashion, speaks English perfectly and takes a keen interest in American affairs. Upon being told that it was not likely, he replied laughingly:

through the West, and they tell me out there that he will. I would be sorry to see him elected and his notions carried into effect. It would be folhis notions carried into effect. It would be followed by a widespread panic that would cause no only ruin in this country, but all over the world, even in Japan. In Japan we have what you might call the free coinage of silver. That is, gold and silver can be taken to the mints and coined alike, but we cannot maintain any parity between the metals. Silver is really the standard, and the gold is quoted at the market prices in Europe and America. The gold fluctuates in value, but silver keeps relatively about equal to the value of the bullion. Your silver men tell me that this country is big enough and strong enough to adopt the free coinage of silver. I doubt it. I would look on such a step as a dangerous experiment, and, while keeps relatively about equal to the value of the bullion. Your silver men tell me that this country is big enough and strong enough to adopt the free coinage of silver. I doubt it. I would look on such a step as a dangerous experiment, and, while it might succeed, I do not believe that it would. I do not believe in change. The monetary system of Japan, perhaps, is not the best in the world, but every one knows the value of the money in circulation, and I believe in letting well enough alone. When I was first elected president of the Bank of Yokohama your Congress had just passed the Sherman law. I remember that it caused consternation even in Japan, and we had much to contend with. The United States is such a great nation and such a factor in the world's commerce that it cannot effect a change like that the free-silver men advocate without tremendous risk and an almost certain panic. I am a bimetallist in the broadest sense of the word, and if the nations of the world could be induced to maintain a ratio between the metals I would be glad of it, but I do not think any single nation is strong enough to mint the silver of the world and determine upon a fixed parity between it and gold without a great deal of trouble."

The little party are taking a deep interest in the political situation in this country and talk intelligently about the campaign. They are amazed at the assumption of the silver men in trying to make sixteen parts of silver equal one part of gold, and in declaring a 53-cent dollar in silver equal to a 100-cent dollar in gold. They are at a loss to calculate how it is to be done, and cannot see why, if it is done, all the silver of the world will not pour into American mints, and why their silver dollar, which does not pretend to pass for more than 53 cents, could not be brought here and passed to equal gold. It would be a good thing for them, they say, but they don't see the equity of it, and doubt the wisdom of the experiment.

JEROLOMAN JUMPED AT THE GUN'S BOOM. Acting Mayor Jeroloman and Secretary Jo Hedges told a story yesterday at the City Hall a the result of their visit to the French frigate th day before. Both of these gentlemen were r ceived aboard ship with great formality and cer mony, and they were sauntering down the wel polished deck past the big rifles when, without an warning, a big gun boomed forth-the first of thirteen guns-the national salute. The Acting Mayor and the secretary were rectly under the gun, and as it went off Mr. Jerol man flew into space, grabbed his hat just as,it w going overboard, and, seeing Hedges dart forwar he grabbed him and yelled: "Let's go; that one going next!" Both of the men declared that the eardrums had burst, and all day yesterday visitor had to shout at the Acting Mayor to draw his a BUSINESS BEFORE THE DOCK BOARD.

Mr. Baker did not be leve that a competent and experienced lawyer should enter a competitive examination for the purpose of securing a retainer, and so wrote the Board.

A request from the Charities Department, asking that the Dock Board construct a pier on Hart's Island for the use of the Manhattan State Hospital, was denied, unless the hospital authorities should agree to pay a definite rental for its use.

DOESN'T WANT HIS PIAZZA MUTILATED.

A motion to continue an injunction during the pendency of an action for trespass was made before Justice Andrews in the Supreme Court yesterday by E. C. Boardman, representing Ignatz Boskowitz, the president of the Merchants and Traders' Bank, against John T. Farley, the builder, Boskowitz owns the house No. 50 West Seventy-second-st. It is alleged by Farley that the plaintiff's plazza extends six inches on his property, which adjoins that of six inches on his property, which adjoins that of Boskowitz, and Farley sent in a workman to chop off the projecting part of the plazza.

Boskowitz threatened to have the workman arrested, and Farley told him to go ahead and he would put another man at work. Boskowitz then got an injunction restraining the action on the part of Farley, and it was to extend this injunction during the pendency of the action that the matter came up yesterday. Decision was reserved. E. & W.
